BROAD APPEAL: President Obama greets the crowd at Hradcany Square in Prague on Sunday. He called for a world free of nuclear weapons on the day North Korea defied global pressure by testing a missile.

PRAGUE | Declaring the future of mankind at stake, President Obama on Sunday said all nations must strive to rid the world of nuclear arms and that the U.S. had a "moral responsibility" to lead because no other country has used a nuclear weapon.

A North Korean rocket launch upstaged Obama's idealistic call to action, delivered in the capital of the Czech Republic, a former satellite of the Soviet Union. But Obama dismissed those who say the spread of nuclear weapons, "the most dangerous legacy of the Cold War," cannot be checked.

"This goal will not be reached quickly — perhaps not in my lifetime," he told a cheering crowd of more than 20,000 in the historic square outside the Prague Castle gates. "[We] must ignore the voices who tell us that the world cannot change. We have to insist, 'Yes, we can.'"

— PRESIDENT OBAMA

Few experts think it's possible to completely eradicate nuclear weapons, and many say it wouldn't be a good idea even if it could be done.

But a program to drastically cut the world atomic arsenal carries support from scientists and lions of the foreign policy world. Obama embraced that step as his first goal and chose as the venue for his address a nation that peacefully threw off communism and helped topple the Soviet Union, despite its nuclear power. He's lucky she said yes — and he's also lucky the diamond engagement ring he dropped on the Brooklyn Bridge didn't end up in the river. Don Walling fumbled the ring as he proposed to his girlfriend on the pedestrian walkway of the Brooklyn Bridge. But he valiantly shimmied down to the lower span — where car traffic travels — and found the bauble. It was bent, but the diamonds were still in place. A police van that patrols the bridge stopped traffic to let him retrieve it. PILLOW FIGHTING A Gang of Turkeys Almost Lose Their Stuffing

Police in Detroit have ruffled some feathers after they cracked down on an organized pillow fight at a downtown park. The Detroit News reports that police at Campus Martius Park prevented the feathery fight Saturday by disarming pillow-toting participants.

The bout was part of a worldwide event organized on social networking Web sites. Michael Davis, 32, of Hamtramck, Mich., says police confiscated his pillows but returned their cases. He says he was told that he needed a permit. (AP)

HARDWARE Study: Getting Hammered Is Just Fine

Prax Sanchez says he doesn't recall any serious home repair mishaps in his past. Yet doctors administering an MRI on the 72-year-old Colorado man last month abruptly stopped the exam to tell him there was something metallic in his face. Right after the MRI, Sanchez coughed up an inch-long nail. His doctor, Jamieson Kennedy, said the nail might have been embedded there for as long as 30 years. The MRI's magnetic force apparently dislodged the nail. (AP)

Air Carriers Fare Better With Fliers

Complaints about service fell last year, annual survey finds

WASHINGTON | U.S. airlines carried fewer people last year but did a better job for those who did fly.

The rates of lost bags, late arrivals, passengers bumped from overbooked flights and consumer complaints all declined, private researchers say in their annual study of airline quality, based on government statistics.

50 The percentage of airline complaints that involved baggage problems, flight delays and cancellations.

Consumer complaints for the 17 airlines included in the study dipped from 1.42 per 100,000 passengers in 2007 to 1.15 in 2008. Southwest Airlines had the best rate, with only 0.25 complaints per 100,000 passengers; US Airways had the worst rate, 2.25.

The average on-time performance last year was 3 percent better than the year before, yet nearly one-quarter of all flights were late. JOAN LOWY (AP)

Officials Defend Shooting Response

N.Y. police arrived 45 minutes after Fri. attack that killed 13

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. | A faster response by emergency officials to the attack at an immigrant services center in Binghamton Friday would have saved no lives, a county prosecutor said Sunday.

The shooting at the American Civic Association stopped shortly after the first 911 calls came at 10:30 a.m., but police didn't enter the building until nearly 45 minutes later.

Survivors reported huddling for hours in a basement, not knowing whether they were still in danger after the gunman, 41-year-old Jiverly Wong, killed 13 people.

Medical examiners who conducted autopsies on the victims reported that their injuries were so severe they would not have survived, said Broome County District Attorney Gerald F. Mollen.

"Nobody could have been saved if the police walked in the door that first minute," he said.

An unidentified woman reacts on Sunday outside a building in Binghamton, N.Y., where a gunman killed 13 people on Friday.

The prosecutor's comments came Sunday as officials prepared to release a list of names and home countries of the victims.

Four Chinese were among those killed, and a Chinese student was shot in the arm and leg but survived, officials said. The other victims came from Haiti, Pakistan, the Philippines, Iraq, Brazil, Vietnam and the United States.

Wong, who killed himself, was "an avid gunman" who visited a firing range on a weekly basis, Police Chief Joseph Zikuski said, but his motive is still unclear.

Officials have said Wong was apparently upset about losing his job at a vacuum plant and about people picking on him for his limited English. (AP)

POLITICS Post-Office Etiquette David Axelrod, President Obama's senior adviser in the White House, took issue Sunday with former vice president Dick Cheney's assertion that the new president is endangering the United States by rolling back the Bush administration's terrorism policies. "[President Bush] has behaved like a statesman [since leaving office]," Axelrod said on CNN. "And as I've said before, here and elsewhere, I just don't think the memo got passed down to the vice president." (EXPRESS)

Escorts Help Critters Cross Over

Volunteers make sure mating amphibians have a safe road trip

NEW HAVEN, VT. | The black salamander with yellow spots sat on the roadside in the dark, ready to make a go of it.

But it was not on its own. It got help from an escort — one of 45 people who volunteered on a recent night to carry salamanders, frogs and newts across the road during their annual migration to mate.

On rainy nights in early spring, roads between forests and vernal pools are hopping and crawling with activity. On some nights, hundreds of amphibians cross small stretches of asphalt to mate. But many don't make it.

From rural Vermont to urban centers such as Philadelphia, human escorts, called bucket brigades in some places, help amphibians make it to their mating areas without getting squashed by cars.

Volunteers watch a salamander cross a roadway in New Haven, Vt., on March 22. On rainy nights in the spring, roads between forests are hopping with amphibians.

It's part education, part conservation and part science.

"It's an extraordinary thing, and people deserve to know about it," said Warren King, a member of the Otter Creek Audubon Society. "And it needs to be protected. There are sites where many of the critters that are crossing never make it."

On a recent night, University of Vermont student Kaitlin Friedman walked with other volunteers along the asphalt with flashlights and clipboards, moving wood frogs; peepers; and blue-spotted, red-backed and four-toed salamanders across the road, while jotting down how many they saw. They also kept count of vehicles and the amphibians that didn't make it, trying to identify the flattened carcasses.

"It's pretty much the one time of year where you get to see a lot of salamanders in abundance and it's just really cool," said Friedman, 20, of Long Island, N.Y.

Geithner Denies Double Standard Exists for Banks

WASHINGTON | The government may require new executives at banks requiring help in the future, Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner said Sunday. Critics of the Obama administration said last week's removal of General Motors CEO Rick Wagoner was unfair, given that bailed-out banks were not subjected to the same treatment.

"If, in the future, banks need exceptional assistance ... then we'll make sure that assistance comes with conditions," Geithner said. "And where that requires a change of management [or] of the board, we'll do that." (AP)

Filled with phenomenal deals, lucky investors will scoop up billions in assets for a fraction of their true value.
But just like the S&L bailout, these properties will be gone in a flash.
Attend my new free workshop and discover how you can be among the first to know how to tap the vast opportunity and funds flowing from the second half of the $700 billion bank bailout, the massive stimulus plan and the new $275 billion housing and foreclosure rescue package.

My financing techniques are perfect for today's tight credit market — and you can learn about them at my FREE workshop.

Banks are desperate to unload foreclosed properties now
Now's the time: On September 7, 2008, Jim Cramer's call to action in New York Magazine gave "ten reasons why everyone who now thinks there's no end in sight... will miss the best opportunity to buy since the 1989-1991 real estate crash." He went on to say "I will call the precise date of the housing market turnaround. It will begin June 30, 2009."

Now's the time: Fantastic properties
At my free workshop, you'll see why the best time to make money in real estate is in today's incredible buyer's market. Conditions are ripe for you to lock down great deals that will set you up for life.

Now's the time: Hidden bargains
The real estate market has cycles. It goes up for a while. Then drops for a while. Most people think a downturn is bad news. So they wait it out, letting the truly terrific deals go to the investors who know how to take full advantage.
The opportunities are everywhere: foreclosures, preforeclosures, probate real estate, rental property, commercial property, bank-owned property, short sales. Learn about how you can make huge profits in today's market.

Officials: N. Korean Launch Fizzles

Rocket test prompts emergency meeting over U.N. sanctions

UNITED NATIONS | The U.S. and its allies sought punishment Sunday for North Korea's defiant launch of a rocket that apparently fizzled into the Pacific, holding an emergency U.N. meeting in response to the "provocative act" that some believe was a long-range missile test.

President Obama, faced with his first global security crisis, called for a international response and condemned North Korea for threatening the peace and stability of nations "near and far." Minutes after liftoff, Japan requested the emergency Security Council session in New York.

U.S. and South Korean officials claim the entire rocket, including whatever payload it carried, ended up in the ocean, but many world leaders fear the launch indicates the capacity to fire a long-range missile. Pyongyang claims it launched an experimental communications satellite into orbit Sunday and that it's transmitting data and patriotic songs.

"North Korea broke the rules, once again, by testing a rocket that could be used for long-range missiles," Obama said in Prague.

Council members sought a unified response and did not expect to reach an agreement on a new resolution, possibly with tighter or extra sanctions, until later in the week, diplomats privy to the talks said.

The U.S. said nuclear-armed North Korea clearly violated the resolution, but objections from Russia and China — the North's closest ally — will likely dilute any strong response. Both have Security Council veto power.

"Obviously, today's action by North Korea constitutes a clear violation," said Susan Rice, the U.S. ambassador to the U.N.

Yukio Takasu, Japan's ambassador to the U.N., called the launch "a clear crime" violating U.N. Security Council demands that posed a grave threat to his nation's security. JOHN HEILPRIN (AP)

Blast at Pakistani Mosque Kills 22

Bomber strikes Shiite facility as Taliban vow 2 attacks weekly

ISLAMABAD | A suicide bombing at a crowded Shiite mosque south of Pakistan's capital killed 22 people Sunday, the latest evidence of how security in the U.S.-allied nation is crumbling well beyond the Afghan border region where al-Qaeda and Taliban fighters thrive.

The violence came as a senior Pakistani Taliban commander said his group was behind a deadly suicide bombing Saturday night in Islamabad and promised two more attacks per week in the country if the U.S. does not stop missile strikes on Pakistani territory.

Sunday's suicide bomber set off his explosives at the entrance to a mosque in the city of Chakwal in Punjab province, about 50 miles south of Islamabad, said Nadeem Hasan Asif, a top security official in the province. The blast killed 22 and wounded dozens, he said.

A little-known group believed to be linked to the Pakistani Taliban claimed it had staged the attack.

TV footage showed pools of blood in front of the mosque. Clothes and shoes littered the ground, while at least one car and four motorcycles were damaged. A policeman with bandaged legs and a wounded man wearing a blood-stained shirt were shown on hospital beds crying in pain. A woman standing in a hospital emergency ward wailed, "Oh, my God!"

Farid Ali said he was leaving the mosque when he felt the blast behind him.

"I saw several people lying dead," he told Express News TV. "There was blood everywhere."

Porn Screening at UMd. Back On

Students, lawmakers at odds over right to academic free speech

University of Maryland students — protesting what they see as an intrusion by Big Brother — are planning to defy authority and screen a hard-core porn movie in the name of free speech and acaademic freedom.

In response, one conservative state legislator revived his threat: If the porn flick is shown on campus, the university might just kiss some state dollars goodbye.

The movie was initially to be shown in the student union Saturday night. But university officials canceled it after Sen. Andrew P. Harris, R-Baltimore County, introduced a bill to withhold state funding from any public university that allowed the screening of a triple-X film.

The fight might have ended there. But some students, adamant that state lawmakers were practicing censorship, have launched plans to show the 2 ½-hour movie on campus Monday night. The Student Power Party, a slate of campus leaders, has reserved a lecture room. A discussion about free speech will precede the movie.

"It's not about porn at all," said Kenton Stalder, a junior helping to arrange the screening. "The content doesn't matter. It's the precedent of a legislator pulling funding for an entire university based on an issue of morality." MARIA GLOD (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Violent Crime Down 22 Percent In Prince William

MANASSAS, VA. | A crime statistics report says the number of violent crimes in Prince William County in 2008 plummeted almost 22 percent compared to 2007.

Officials say violent crime dropped primarily because there were fewer robberies and aggravated assaults.

The report also says that a marginal percentage of arrests involved illegal immigrants during the first 10 months of the county's illegal immigration enforcement policy. (AP)

State Lawmakers' Second Home

Md. innkeeper helps legislators feel at ease for Annapolis sessions

ANNAPOLIS, MD. | Many state lawmakers make Annapolis their place of residence during the 90-day legislative session. Peg Bednarsky, the innkeeper for Historic Inns of Annapolis, aims to make it their home.

"Just having them here is like having children come home," said Bednarsky, who has worked 40 years at the inns that include the Maryland Inn, the Governor Calvert House and the Robert Johnson House.

Walking through the atrium of the Governor Calvert House, Bed-narsky greets legislators, lobbyists and staff with a hug. She remembers details about their lives and compliments the staff.

Innkeeper Peg Bednarsky talks about past performers at the Robert Johnson House, where many Maryland lawmakers reside during the legislative session.

In the hotel's legislative lounge, delegates and senators can relax, watch TV and grab a meal.

"The lounge, we find, is their home away from home," Bednarsky said. "It's hard to be in a bedroom for 90 days. ... We do a lot of things to make it a little easier."

Bednarsky said she welcomes her role as legislative "mother" during the three months of the session. She became the innkeeper in 1975 and has watched the business grow and the city change as countless legislators have stayed at the inns. Seeing the lawmakers let their guard down when they return each day from the State House, Bednarsky gets rare insight into the legislators and the process of making state law.

"As session goes on, you see the worries — the happiness for some, the worries for others," she said. "It gets very intense the last few weeks. ... They truly are an inspiration. I don't know if their districts know how hard they work."

Avoiding small fees is an easy way to save hundreds each year

PERSONAL FINANCE | Fed up with your hard-earned money going to big corporations while you're struggling to get by? Want to do something about it?

You're not as powerless as you might think.

Consumers spend billions each year on fees and add-on charges, many of which are unnecessary, and over time the small fees can take a big bite out of your budget.

There are many fees consumers can't avoid, but some may be negotiated and others dodged by changing habits or payment methods.

Here are some fees and charges you can look to cut out, potentially billing instead and save up to $42 per year.

Airline baggage-check fees can range from nothing to more than $100 for a family that's traveling. Frequent fliers can save big by paying close attention to the fees.

→ UTILITIES, cable and Internet providers now commonly charge as much as $15 for making a payment over the phone. These fees are often waived online, so set up your accounts on the Web in case you have to make a last-minute payment.

→ TELEPHONE COMPANIES often charge separately for services such as voice mail, call waiting and caller ID. Some of these features may duplicate service you have on your cell phone. Compare both bills, and cut out services you don't need.

→ ASK HOTELS and resorts whether they charge fees for amenities such as fitness centers or pools when you make a reservation, advises David Lytle, editorial director of Frommers.com. If you're not going to use certain facilities, negotiate with the hotel before you sign anything that allows them to bill you.

→ WHEN BOOKING A FLIGHT, watch out for charges like selecting an exit row seat ($20 at AirTran Airways), seats with more legroom ($35 at Spirit Airlines) and even picking a seat in advance ($5 to $35 at Northwest Airlines). Wait until you get to the airport and you may be able to avoid fees such as charges for certain seats.

→ BANKS CHARGE $10 to $38 for overdrafts, with the median about $27, Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. data say. These fees are becoming more common, so be mindful of debit card spending, ATM withdrawals and any automatic payments that you have set up. EILEEN AJ CONNELLY (AP)

That leaves Austin Kearns, Elijah Dukes and Josh Willingham fighting each other for playing time in the Washington Nationals' lone remaining outfield spot, right field. All have enough virtues to make a claim to the starting spot, and all have enough flaws to give Manager Manny Acta pause before fully committing to any of them.

Acta announced on Saturday that Kearns will be the opening day starter, a mild surprise given that the 28-year-old hit just .217 with seven home runs in an injury-plagued 2008.

Acta promised an open competition in spring training and was true to his word. Kearns hit .286 with four home runs and 10 RBI, easily outpacing the other two.

“It would send the wrong message after he led all our outfielders in home runs and RBI if we don't give him the job.”

"I think it would send the wrong message after he led all our outfielders in home runs and RBI if we don't give him the job," Acta said.

The club now faces a precarious balancing act — finding enough time for all the players to keep them productive and happy. Willingham, during the spring, said publicly that he wouldn't be satisfied as a bench player.

"Those guys play every day and probably are not going to be as happy not playing every day," Acta said. "We have depth for our front office to make a deal if one is presented to us." DEREK TURNER

Mich. Clings to Spartans

NCAA championship brings hope to fans hit hard by recession

NCAA HOOPS | Michigan State has been itching for this do-over since December. Not only is the NCAA title at stake when the Spartans play North Carolina on Monday night, but Michigan State will try to avenge that 35-point beat-down the Tar Heels laid on them four months ago. It was the most lopsided loss for Michigan State since 1996, Tom Izzo's first year as coach.

Travis Walton and Michigan State face UNC in a rematch of a blowout Monday.

"We got embarrassed," Kalin Lucas said after the 98-63 loss in the ACC/Big Ten Challenge, also played at Ford Field.

Oh, how things have changed.

The Spartans (31-6) are an inspired bunch these days, playing for their third national title and the pride of their downtrodden state.

Few places have been hit harder by the economic crisis than Michigan — Detroit is desperate for something to rally around, even if only for a few hours. The Spartans have been happy to oblige, knocking off not one, but two No. 1 seeds to get to the NCAA title game.

Now comes another in North Carolina (33-4). It will be the fifth meeting between the Tar Heels and Spartans in the NCAA tournament, and North Carolina has won the first four.

"I hope we were a ray of sunshine," Izzo said after the Spartans ran over Hasheem Thabeet and Connecticut Saturday night. "We're not done yet." NANCY ARMOUR (AP)

Escape from Crushing Mortgage Payments

Homeowners are overwhelmed with the anticipation of meeting their mortgage payments. In this situation homeowners often think they have no available options. After hundreds of calls to the bank with no help, only to be put on hold for 15 to 20 minutes, time and time again homeowners are finding they are receiving little or no assistance being offered by banks. After several attempts and months later many homeowners receive mortgage notification letters of an escalation in their mortgage payment due to ARM adjustments. With the passing of the Stimulus Bill, President Obama has provided several options for homeowners.

Co-owners Joan Williamson, BBA and A. Racquel Sharpton, MBA of the Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC owners of a local Real Estate company specialize in helping homeowners sell their homes through the option of a Short Sale. A Short Sale is when the Mortgagee/homeowner decides to Sell their home "For Less Than" the Mortgaged amount or at Current Market Value. A Short Sale may be a great option for Military or Government employees who are forced to relocate due to a job transfer; for homeowners who are a couple of months behind on their mortgage; or someone who is expecting an escalation in their mortgage payment due to an ARM adjustment.

The entire short sale process is extremely time consuming. In order to sell your home as a short sale you must obtain permission from your mortgage. Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC will work with you the homeowner and your mortgage to obtain the required approval. This process can be very lengthy and time consuming and can take up to 3 to 4 months for the approval process. The Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC's recommendation is to begin the short sale process up to 3 to 5 months prior to the homeowners projected list date. The bank will request from the Mortgageor approximately 2 to 3 months of recent bank statements, a Hardship Letter, the last 2 years of a copy of your Tax Return, Authorization Letter and a copy of your Listing Agreement from your Realtor.

Duo & Associates, LLC takes pride in the personal care of their clients. The Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC takes pride in helping clients feel comfortable about their financial situation.

Whether a homeowner has good, bad or ugly credit, a short sale is an option for all parties. Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC uses their honest and professional hands on techniques to help the homeowner through what could be considered a very stressful time. If a short sale request is approved by the bank, the seller can choose to list their home with a Realtor of the Dynamic Duo Team. No one should feel that they are scrambling to pay their mortgage payments, so take time to consider your options and give the Dynamic Duo & Associates, LLC of Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage. Songbird's Late Arrival

After a two-year wait, Keri Hilson is finally singing what's been on her mind

INTRODUCTION | They say that good things come to those who wait, and after enduring a two-year wait for the release of her debut album, singer-songwriter Keri Hilson couldn't agree more.

"In a Perfect World ...," which was released last month, hit No. 1 on the Billboard's R&B/Hip-Hop albums chart and has a huge hit with the song "Turnin' Me On," featuring Lil Wayne.

Hilson, who has co-penned songs such as Mary J. Blige's "Take Me as I Am" and Britney Spears' "Gimme More," was supposed to release her album around the time she was riding high off Timbaland's international smash "The Way I Are," which she co-wrote and for which she was the featured singer. But despite the buzz around her, the album took time to see the light of day as it was reworked.

The CD, which ranges from futuristic pop to smooth R&B to swagger-jamming hip-hop, is one Hilson plans to promote on tour for the next two years.

AP: Being that you've written songs for others, how was it different writing for your own album?

Hilson: I guess for myself I can be a little less inhibited. I don't have to wonder and guess or assume how PITCH- AND PICTURE-PERFECT: R&B hit songwriter Keri Hilson has turned on her mic and is now soaking up the spotlight.

I feel about a certain situation — I know what it is that I want to say, so it doesn't have to pass inspection.

Was there any fear you could get stuck being a songwriter only?

Although I was content, I was a little unfulfilled that I wasn't performing as well. So, I didn't pursue the artist thing after groups I was in disbanded — I just didn't. I kind of always knew it would come back around; the chance and the opportunity would reach me and that I would be ready.

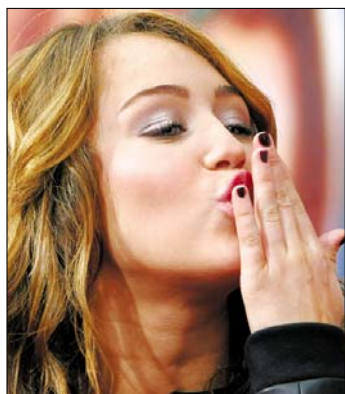

“People say all publicity is good publicity. I don't necessarily think that.”

There's been a lot of talk about the "Turnin' Me On" remix, which people interpret as a dis on Beyonce and Ciara. Do you think it got overplayed?

People say all publicity is good publicity. I don't necessarily think that, because it's, like, at what expense? Maybe I fell from grace in people's eyes because of the things that I was saying; maybe I fell from grace in people's eyes because they feel that I retracted even though that was never the intention behind it. But people are going to believe what they want to believe at the end of the day. I've learned I can't please the world, and I don't have any intention to. There are fans that love and respect what I do. I do music for those people that get me.

Miley still loves you, sold albums or not.

The Calm After the Storm

Is 'Hannah Montana' less squeal-worthy with a country vibe?

SALES | A new album from "Hannah Montana" star Miley Cyrus fell short of No. 1 on the U.S. pop charts in its first week of release, raising the question: Are the tween star's fans ready for her to go a little bit country?

Only a year ago, Cyrus' 3-D concert film set records, and scalpers were charging thousands for tickets to her live concerts.

The album is the soundtrack to the singer-actress' "Hannah Montana: The Movie," which opens Friday and takes the character to her family's roots in Tennessee. The album showcases Cyrus as more of a country performer alongside songs by country stars Rascal Flatts and Taylor Swift.

Walt Disney Records' senior vice president, Jim Weatherson, said the soundtrack's sales were in line with projections, considering it was released two weeks before the movie.

BOX OFFICE Red Hot and Cool "Fast & Furious" has left its competition in the dust with a $72.5 million opening weekend, the best opening weekend so far this year, topping the previous weekend's $59.3 million debut for "Monsters vs. Aliens." "Fast & Furious," starring Vin Diesel, also raced to a record for April debuts, passing the previous best of $42.2 million set by "Anger Management" in 2003. The fourth installment of the "Fast and the Furious" street-racing franchise brings back the four stars of the 2001 original. (AP)

Larry David, John Gallagher Jr. and Evan Rachel Wood take part in Woody Allen's new romantic comedy, "Whatever Works."

Double Take the Lead

Woody Allen goes back to familiar ground with a new nervous mouthpiece

ANXIETIES | Woody Allen is back on familiar ground with his latest movie, the first shot in his beloved New York City after four made in Europe.

And for "Whatever Works," Allen has found a suitable mouthpiece for his cynical humor in Larry David, star of "Curb Your Enthusiasm."

The film received a warm reception at a screening Thursday at ShoWest, an annual convention of theater owners. "Whatever Works" opens the Tribeca Film Festival on April 22 in advance of its theatrical debut in June.

Allen shot most of his films in New York before doing three in London — "Match Point," "Scoop" and "Cassandra's Dream" — then making last year's "Vicky Cristina Barcelona" in Spain, which featured Allen's new collaborator, Scarlett Johansson.

Patricia Clarkson, who had a small role in "Vicky Cristina Barcelona" and takes on a key part in "Whatever Works," said the New York shoot was a pleasure — since she lives there, too.

"It was so nice to be shooting with Woody Allen in New York," said Clarkson, who introduced the film to the ShoWest crowd. "There were a couple days I walked to work.

“They are kissing cousins. They are kindred spirits, absolutely.”

—PATRICIA CLARKSON, ACTRESS

"He was definitely on his own turf," Clarkson said. "When we were shooting in Barcelona, it was like shooting with Mick Jagger. I mean, the streets were lined wherever we went for Scarlett and for Woody. In New York, the crowds gather, but I think because it's Woody, they're actually respectful of him."

"Whatever Works" casts David as a misanthropic physicist whose outlook drives him to failed suicide attempts. After splitting with his worldly wife and giving up his teaching job, he becomes a cranky chess instructor in a May-December relationship with a naive Southern beauty (Evan Rachel Wood), whose mother (Clarkson) schemes to split them up.

David delivers nicely as the sort of eccentric New Yorker who Allen has played in past films. But David is more than a stand-in for Allen, Clarkson said.

"They are kissing cousins. They are kindred spirits, absolutely," Clarkson said. "But Larry David is ... very different than he is on 'Curb Your Enthusiasm.' ... He's a different man, and he's different in the Woody Allen film.

"It's Larry's own DNA mixed with Woody's writing. Those are two powerful DNAs mixing. It's inspired." DAVID GERMAIN (AP)

Bob Saget risks his TV show career on ‘Surviving Suburbia’

DEAD END | Every so often, a show makes you ask, “Why?” Why did ABC decide to broadcast “Surviving Suburbia” (9:30 p.m., ABC)? Did it think people would watch anything after “Dancing With the Stars”?

For the record, Bob Saget plays a world-weary husband to Anne (Cynthia Stevenson), who puts up with his crankiness because he’s a lovable lug. They have a teenage son who is wise to Dad’s wise-cracking and a 7-year-old daughter who says precious things when not plugging Disney movies. They have a wacky neighbor with boundary issues. Chaos ensues.

Sorry, Saget. Looks like you were funnier when you were dad to millionaire twins.

Like every failed sitcom I have ever seen, the interior and exterior sets are completely generic. This could be because “Surviving” is supposed to be a satire of “cookie-cutter” suburbs, but every house and every yard projects the personality of its owner. Good sitcoms reflect this fact. Remember the living room on “Roseanne”? The makers of “Surviving” give no thought to the set design because they’ve given no thought to their characters. And neither should you. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

The shift from numerical to alphabetic keyboards, which has overturned cell phone design over the last two years, is a recognition of the popularity of text messaging.

Alphabetic Aesthetics

Cell phone keypad changes reflect the popularity of texting

OBSOLETE | Goodbye, numeric cell phone keypads. You're going the way of the rotary dial. Touch screens and QWERTY keyboards will take over from here, thank you.

At North America's largest cell phone trade show, which ran last week in Las Vegas, there were few new phones for the U.S. market that had a numerical keypad instead of an alphabetic keyboard. Touch screens also were out in force.

These changes are a recognition of the popularity of text messaging and wireless Internet use. Industry organization CTIA Wireless, which hosts the show, said U.S. subscribers sent 1 trillion text messages last year, three times the 2007 volume. Meanwhile, the same people used 2.2 trillion minutes of voice calls, an increase of less than 5 percent.

This shift in how people use their mobile devices has overturned cell phone design. According to NPD Group, 31 percent of phones sold in U.S. stores in the fourth quarter of 2008 had full-alphabet keyboards, up from 5 percent two years earlier.

Old-fashioned numeric keypads still will have a prominent place — but largely overseas. In a twist of market dynamics, the demand for QWERTY phones is mainly a North American phenomenon, said Ross Rubin, an analyst at NPD.

Although touch screens are gaining in popularity all over the world, people in other countries got into text messaging much earlier and "became acclimated to texting with a keypad," Rubin said. Meanwhile, the U.S. market has been influenced by high-end smart phones such as the Treo and the BlackBerry that pioneered small versions of typewriter-style keyboards.

As a result, numeric keypads were still dominant at the CTIA booth of Nokia Corp., the world's largest maker of cell phones, which has a relatively minor presence in the U.S. PETER SVENSSON (AP)

DISCUSSIONS

FAST FORWARD

I'm finally in the market for an LCD TV, and I noticed some brands have PC input. Sorry for this stupid question — how much can this "PC input" do? Can it become my second computer screen?

It does what you think it does, and, yes, that means your new HDTV can double as a really big monitor for your computer. Technically, "PC input" usually means "VGA," the standard analog connection for monitors. Some computers offer DVI or HDMI outputs that can connect, directly or with adapters, to the HDMI inputs on all new HDTVs.

Don't put too much value in how an HDTV looks in a store.

If you back up your PC completely using Western Digital's Data Lifeguard or Acronis True Image Home, and then RESTORE it to a new HDD, will the OS (Win XP) be operative? Will all programs work?

I think that if you do a disk-image backup — a bit-for-bit copy of the drive's contents — you'll be fine. I don't know whether that would be the case with a simple file copy.

I'm looking for a new LCD TV for my main set and keep coming back to the new Toshiba. Have you compared them with any competitors? The picture is (to my eye) far superior to the Sonys and Sharps at Costco.

Don't put too much value in how an HDTV looks in a store. Most of them have their screens cranked up to unnaturally bright levels to compensate for the bright lighting there.

JURY DUTY | Here are the facts: Malvolio, former steward to Countess Olivia of Illyria, was tricked into making a fool of himself and was subsequently imprisoned. Now he's out for justice — or is it revenge?

Every spring, the Shakespeare Theater company hosts a mock trial — the case of a fictional character who has been accused of some wrongdoing. Real lawyers argue the cases before a panel of high-profile judges. This year, Supreme Court Justices Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Stephen Breyer and Samuel Alito will head the committee. If you're upset by the ubiquity of government in D.C., this might not be your event.

In honor of this season's production of "Twelfth Night," the trial is titled "Malvolio's Revenge." The hapless villain of the play, Malvolio, has successfully sued his former employer, Olivia, for punitive damages. Now, she's appealing the previous verdict, which would force her to pay up to the tune of $10 million for offenses for which she claims she isn't responsible.

RACHEL BECKMAN

The judges and lawyers involved have the somewhat daunting task of becoming Shakespeare scholars and legal scholars in the space of a few months. However, the defense and prosecution both seem ably prepared for Monday's trial.

"Olivia is certainly not liable for anything," says Roy T. Englert Jr., counsel for the petitioners, "[She is] as pure as the driven snow." As for the jury's original verdict? "It's unjust, and it just can't stand."

But former U.S. Solicitor General Paul D. Clement, who will represent Malvolio Monday night, isn't worried.

"I have faith in my client," he said. "Everybody recognizes that he was notoriously abused."

Reel Politics

"Space, Unlimited" indeed does not limit itself in any way — these works use everything from clothing to video as a conduit for their messages.
